The Senatorship.

As will be seen by the notice published elsewhere in our columns, the County Chairman of the Republican Party has issued his call for a Convention, to be held on Wednesday next, to make a nomination for the vacant Senatorship.

The most prominent of the numerous candidates for this important office is Judge T. C. Andrews, who from the first dawn of Republicanism in this State has been an earnest, sincere and faithful member of that powerful organization whose battle cry and watch word is, and forever will be, "Equal rights for all men."

Judge Andrews is no "latter day" or "eleventh hour" Republican. He did not wait until the progress of liberal ideas had made the transition from Democracy to Republicanism comparatively easy. He was a Republican in the earliest and darkest days of the party—when the white Republican was looked upon as an outcast by all others of his color, and when he received at their hands little save scoffing and insult. Then was the time to prove a man's loyalty to the party of progress and manhood, and then did Judge Andrews place himself boldly upon the record. And never has he flinched a hair's breadth from the position he then assumed.

Such a man as Judge Andrews is needed in the Senate. Let the party recognize the faithful service of this true and tried Republican by a unanimous nomination in the convention on Wednesday next.

Land Buying.

Numbers of colored men in this County have bought land and paid part of the purchase money, who have not a scrap of writing to show their title to the land so bought. If they were to die now, their families might be put to heavy expense to establish their claims, and if the seller were to die the buyer might be entirely without remedy. Our colored friends ought to remember that the law is regard to the purchase of land is very different from the law in regard to the purchase of personal property, such as horses, mules, &c. No bill of sale is necessary to give a good title to personal property. If you pay for a horse and take him, that is enough, provided the seller really owned him. But to own land in the proper, business way, there must be a regular deed, regularly witnessed and recorded.

Sellers of land who understand these matters can not in honesty take money from ignorant purchasers without explaining this matter, or giving the buyers proper evidence of sale. We advise our colored friends to buy no land of any man who is not willing to give the proper papers therefor. All honorable men will do this; the less you have to do with the other kind, the better.

The Sun says: A. T. Stewart, before leaving for Europe last week, made his will. The schedule of his real estate with its valuation runs up to the extraordinary sum of one hundred millions of dollars.

The Mysterious Suit.

We have often given expression to our fears and anxieties with reference to this Morton-Bliss-Kimpton suit against the people of this State. We have seen in its subtle progress the cold, slimy trail of the serpent, who would coil his folds about the quivering form of the public credit, and stifle, if possible, even the cry of alarm. We have heard on the street, in private rooms, and even in the halls of the State Capitol, mysterious rumors, vague whisperings of evil to come, that chill the blood of the citizen like the night-mare-life-in-death. We have felt the painful throbbing of the popular heart, the deep revenging beating of an aching heart that will not suffer alone, if suffer it must, but when it breaks, the great agony that wrenches its life blood from it, will deluge the hand that wrings it in the blood which retributive justice shall shed.

The last wrong has been done to South Carolina that can be safely done, we care not from what quarter it may spring. The hand of the assassin is palsied—the fetter of the slave is broken—the ban of prejudice has burst like a bubble of folly—the tyranny of public opinion has disappeared like a vanishing malarial—the curse of ignorance is lifted by the angel of the public school—corruption, that stalks like a thief in the night, is in the grasp of the law—neither any combination of bold bad men, nor any administration, nor any judiciary shall harm it further with impunity. Let the issue come, and come quickly, or not at all.—Charleston Chronicle.

The Third Term.

The argument of opposition journals that the President can secure, by the "packing" system, his own renomination or dictate his successor are absurd. The popular will of the people renominated and re-elected Presidents Lincoln and Grant. If the people desire Grant for a third term, and he will accept, they will renominate him, without once hesitating to consider who has received anything from or who are hanging about the public crib. It would be well for these journals to remember the fact that where there is one office to be disposed of there are a hundred applicants. One person gets the office; the other ninety nine will see that no "packing" is done.—Union Herald.

How it Feels to Freeze.—One who knows tells how pleasant it is to freeze, to death in Minnesota. He says the bitter cold does not chill and shake a person as indampen climates. It stealthily creeps within all defences, and nips at the bone without warning. Riding along with busy thoughts, a quiet, pleasurable drowsiness takes possession of the body, and, in mind, the fancies grow indistinct, the thoughts wander, weird fancies come trooping about with fantastic forms, the memory fails, and, in a confused dream of wife and home, the soul steps out into oblivion without a pang of regret.

A horse thief named Howard, lately hanged by a vigilance committee in Missouri, was ascertained to have been a member of that committee. The regulations of the committee demand in such cases that the offender shall be dragged to the place of execution by the tail of a horse, an act of cruelty that was literally carried out in the case of Howard.

A mammoth in the rural districts lately gave her five-old hopeful an outfit of fish-tackle. Soon she heard a shout from Willie, and running out found one of her best hens fast winding up the line in her crop, whither the hook had already preceded it. Willie, observing the troubled look of his mother, quietly remarked: "Don't worry, mother. I guess she will stop when she gets to the pole."
